National Crime Victims' Rights Week

April 22-28, 2012 is National Crime Victims' Rights Week (NCVRW), sponsored by the Office for Victims of Crime (OVC). It is a time for all Americans to learn about victimization, reflect on the cost of crime to our society, and promote laws, policies, and programs to help victims of crime rebuild their lives.

For three decades, National Crime Victims' Rights Week has successfully promoted awareness of victims' rights and services and honored countless crime victims and survivors. This year's theme—Extending the Vision: Reaching Every Victim—calls on us to expand the vision that inspired the movement and celebrate the progress achieved to date.

It captures the spirit and resolve needed to realize our common goal of reaching each victim in need of hope and help, one victim at a time.

Although there is much to celebrate within the victim rights movement, we face multiple, complex challenges in reaching out to victims. New types of crime have emerged and proliferated as a result of changes brought about by technology, globalization, and demographics in our society. Meanwhile, long-standing types of victimization endure, demanding a renewed commitment to action.

We've come a great distance since the days when crime victims had no rights or services. Yet we also know how many crimes are still committed, how few are reported, and how many victims struggle alone to overcome the impact of crime. In these financially challenging times, we see our colleagues struggling to achieve more for victims, while working with less. As we move forward, let us all work together to help keep the doors open, so that all victims have somewhere to go for help - every victim, every time.

Statewide and National Events

Inside this issue is a partial listing of the events occurring nationally and around our state to observe National Victims' Rights Week. We invite you to participate and support events to renew your own commitment to your work and honor victims in their recovery.

General Crime and Victimization Statistics

- During 2012, U.S. residents age 12 and older experienced an estimated 18.7 million violent and property crime victimizations, down from 20.1 million in 2009.
- In a 2008 report (most recent year this data was collected), for crimes both reported and not reported to the police, the total economic loss to victims was $1.19 billion for violent crime and $16.21 billion for property crime.
- In 2010, violent crimes (against both males and females) by intimate partners totaled 509,230, and accounted for 13.4 percent of violent crimes.
- During 2010, 92,865 persons over the age of 65 were victims of violent crime.
- An estimated 14,748 persons were murdered nationwide in 2010, a 4.2 percent decline from 2009.
- Of female murder victims in 2010, 37.5 percent were killed by a husband or boyfriend.
- Law enforcement cleared (by arrest or exceptional means) 64.8 percent of the murders that occurred nationwide in 2010.
- In 2010, an estimated 8.1 million adults, or 3.5 percent of the population, became victims of identity fraud, down from about 11 million in 2009.
- In 2010, victims age 12 or older experienced a total of 188,380 rapes or sexual assaults.
- In 2010, 49.6 percent of all rapes and sexual assaults were reported to law enforcement.
- In 2010, approximately 1.4 million people were arrested for driving under the influence (DUI) in the United States.
- In 2009, 56 percent of alcohol-impaired drivers and motorcyclists involved in fatal crashes had a BAC of .15 or greater, nearly twice the legal limit (.08 or higher) in all states and the District of Columbia.
- During a one-year period, 60.6 percent of children and youth from birth to 17 years of age experienced at least one direct or indirect (as a witness) victimization.
- In 2007, 32 percent of students ages 12 to 18 reported having been bullied at school.
- About one-third (37.8 percent) of surveyed youth have witnessed violence against another person during their lifetime. However, among 14- to 17-year-olds, 7 in 10 have witnessed violence against another person in their lifetime.
- More than 1 in 5 (22 percent) of 14- to 17-year-olds in the United States have witnessed a shooting in their lifetime.
