

Kris Mayes
Attorney General

Office of the Attorney General
State of Arizona

WRITTEN DETERMINATION PURSUANT TO A.R.S. § 41-4802

This written determination is made by the Arizona Attorney General in accordance with A.R.S. § 41-4802. The Arizona Attorney General has determined that it would be cost effective and in the public interest to engage a private law firm to assist with the Office's litigation regarding consumer fraud in connection with pharmaceutical manufacturer and distributor's replacement of Flovent, a prescribed asthma medication, with a generic, for the purpose of avoiding rebates under Medicaid. Pursuant to § 41-4802(B), the Attorney General previously issued a request for proposals and hereby selects DiCello Levitt L.L.P., pursuant to standard consumer protection contingency fee contract, AG24-0016-004.

The Attorney General has determined that it is necessary and appropriate to retain DiCello Levitt L.L.P. on a contingency fee basis for the reasons that follow.

1. There currently do not exist sufficient and appropriate legal resources within the Attorney General's Office to handle the matter without additional assistance;
2. The time and labor required to perform the necessary legal tasks exceeds or likely soon will exceed the current capacity of the Attorney General's Office without additional assistance;
3. Individual attorneys within the Attorney General's Office possess the skill necessary to properly initiate and oversee this matter, but given the novelty, complexity, and difficulty of the issues and stakes currently pending litigation and possible future related litigation, the Office would greatly benefit from the expertise offered by DiCello Levitt L.L.P.;
4. The geographic area where the private attorney services are to be provided is primarily in the State of Arizona, although the conduct at issue involves in no small part other jurisdictions and will require signification out-of-state action related to other pending state and multi-district litigation and possible future related litigation;
5. The Attorney General has determined the attorneys of DiCello Levitt L.L.P. have substantial complex litigation experience and familiarity with high stakes litigation, trial practice, and appellate litigation at the highest levels;
6. The primary purpose of this agreement will be to enforce all applicable legal authority for liability and remedies to the State, and obtain damages, costs of suit and investigation, attorney's fees, and any other appropriate and available remedies and relief.

Daniel Ferri has extensive experience in complex litigation, including through the representation of public clients. Over the last five years, Dan has investigated, litigated, and settled multiple complex consumer fraud actions on behalf of the State of New Mexico.

In State of New Mexico v. Volkswagen Group of America, Inc., et al. Case No. D-101-CV-2016-00131 (Santa Fe Cnty., N.M.), Dan represented New Mexico against Volkswagen, Audi, and Porsche, asserting consumer protection claims relating to diesel vehicles that contained “defeat devices” designed to evade emissions standards. On the fifty states that settled with these defendants over the same misconduct, we helped New Mexico achieve a settlement per vehicle that far exceeded the money received by any other state.

In State of New Mexico v. Takata Corporation, et al., Case No. D-101-CV-2017-00176 (Santa Fe Cnty., N.M.), Dan helped New Mexico obtain more than $25 million against Honda, Ford, and other automobile companies for the marketing and sale of vehicles with Takata airbag inflators susceptible to rupture and capable of causing death and severe injury. Dan also served as bankruptcy counsel when Takata Corporation and its American subsidiary went into bankruptcy shortly after our case was filed.

In State of New Mexico, ex rel. Hector H. Balderas v. Solvay Pharms., Case No. D-101-CV-2019-01897 (Santa Fe Cnty., N.M.), we successfully represented New Mexico against AbbVie, Abbott, and Solvay Pharmaceuticals for the deceptive marketing and sale of the testosterone therapy supplement drug AndroGel, which they marketed as a “cure” for aging men, while omitting the cardiovascular and other risks associated with the drug.

Dan currently represents New Mexico in litigation against Facebook for the social media giant’s misuse of user’s personal information, as well as in two antitrust actions against major pork and broiler chicken producers stemming from conspiracies to reduce production and artificially inflate prices.

Executive Summary describing this individual’s suitability for a project of this nature. Include similar cases the individual was involved in and their role.

Adam Levitt has scored important wins leading dozens of significant litigations on behalf of individuals, businesses, and public clients and has built a firm that reflects his resolve for justice in all its dimensions. One of the nation’s leading advocates for plaintiffs in complex multidistrict, commercial, public client, and class action litigations, Adam has delivered nearly $20 billion in recoveries to clients in biotechnology, financial services, insurance coverage, consumer protection, automotive defects, agricultural products, antitrust, and securities disputes. Adam’s reputation for innovatively taking on tough cases has led to his appointment by State Attorneys General in the largest ongoing environmental PFAS water contamination cases of our time, and the historic litigation arising from Volkswagen’s emissions scandal, where, as a court appointed member of a leadership group characterized as a “class action dream team,” he helped to secure a $16 billion settlement that benefitted car buyers across the United States. Adam has also served as co-lead counsel in three of the largest biotechnology class actions in history. He secured $1.1 billion in settlements resulting from contamination of the U.S. rice supply with genetically modified seeds; helped to obtain a $550 million settlement on behalf of landowners and landscapers in a class action involving tree and other foliage death and harm caused by an herbicide; and recovered $110 million for farmers who sustained market losses on corn crops from contamination of the U.S. corn supply with genetically modified corn. In addition to securing significant financial relief for his clients, Adam’s work has changed how biotechnology class action cases are litigated in the U.S. He co-created a game-changing economic model to measure crop contamination damages that set the modern industry standard

Adam’s groundbreaking work on behalf of plaintiffs has been recognized locally and nationally in prestigious ranking directories, including Chambers USA, where he received a Band 1 ranking for Mainly Plaintiffs Litigation in Illinois. Chambers USA also ranked Adam in Illinois for General Commercial Litigation and nationwide for Product Liability Litigation, where the editors describe him as the “go-to plaintiffs’ attorney in the class actions space.” In 2021 and 2022, Benchmark Litigation awarded Adam National Litigation Star: Securities and Litigation Star in Illinois. According to The National Law Journal, Adam is a “pioneer” in technology litigation, and Crain’s Chicago Business named him a 2021 Notable Gen X Leader in Accounting, Consulting, and Law. An elected member of the American Law Institute and the Economic Club of Chicago, Adam considers the formation of DiCello Levitt in 2017 to be a pivotal moment in his decades-long legal career. With a shared vision, foundation of trust, and commitment to holding large companies accountable for injuries caused by their products and practices, he and his partners intend to maintain their industry-wide influence and successful track record for years to come.

Over the last five years, Adam has also led multiple complex consumer fraud actions on behalf of the State of New Mexico.

Executive Summary describing this individual’s suitability for a project of this nature. Include similar cases the individual was involved in and their role.

Amy Keller has held leadership positions in a variety of complex litigations across the U.S., where she has successfully litigated high-profile and costly data security and consumer privacy cases. As the firm’s Privacy, Technology, and Cybersecurity practice chair, she is the youngest woman ever appointed to serve as co-lead class counsel in a nationwide class action. In the multidistrict litigation against Equifax related to its 2017 data breach, Amy represented nearly 150 million class members and helped to secure a $1.5 billion settlement, working alongside federal and state regulators to impose important security practice changes to protect consumer data.

Amy has represented consumers against industry titans like Apple, Marriott, Electrolux, and BMW, securing victories against each. Her numerous other leadership positions have required sophistication in not only understanding complex legal theories, but also in presenting multifaceted strategies and damages modeling to ensure favorable results. For example, in leading a nationwide class action related to a data breach that exposed the confidential information of nearly 300 million individuals, Amy worked with her team to develop an argument recognized by the trial court that the loss of someone’s personal information, alone, could trigger financial liability. In another matter, Amy defended her team’s victory all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court, ensuring that consumers would be able to band together as a class when a company defrauds them for small amounts individually that are worth millions of dollars in the aggregate.

Amy is an elected member of the American Law Institute and a two-time chair of the Chicago Bar Association Class Action Committee, where she gave a number of presentations on topics impacting large-scale consumer class actions, including presentations on emerging legal issues in privacy cases. Ms. Keller is recognized by Crain’s Chicago Business as a 40 under 40 for the class of 2022, and is a board member and Executive Committee member of Public Justice, a not-for-profit legal advocacy organization. She is also a member of the Sedona Conference’s Working Group 11, which focuses on advancing the law on issues surrounding technology, privacy, artificial intelligence, and data security, and she is also on drafting teams for both Model Data Breach Notification Principles and Statutory Remedies and the California Consumer Privacy Act. Amy is the Data Breach and Cybersecurity Practice Group Committee Chair for the American Association for Justice and previously served on the Cybersecurity & Privacy Editorial Advisory Board for Law360, where she brought plaintiff counsel’s perspective to the publication’s analysis of technology lawsuits.

ACCEPTANCE OF REQUIREMENTS

DiCello Levitt accepts the requirements of Solicitation Number BPM004964.

NARRATIVE

DiCello Levitt is one of the nation's leading consumer protection law firms, with more than 60 lawyers, in five offices across the United States, representing public entities and private corporations and individuals in a diverse array of practice areas. While a complete firm resume has also been submitted with our proposal, we take this letter's opportunity to focus your office's attention on the qualifications and achievements of those lawyers leading the firm's Public Client, Technology, and Antitrust practice groups, as it is primarily the combination of these groups that makes our firm a strong choice to represent Arizona in consumer fraud and antitrust matters.

Public Client

DiCello Levitt currently serves as outside counsel for the Illinois, Michigan, and New Mexico Attorneys General offices. In representing these states, our firm has demonstrated the ability to successfully handle lengthy and complex attorney general litigation.

Within the last four years, we have helped the New Mexico Office of the Attorney General achieve a string of successful results:

In State of New Mexico v. Volkswagen Group of America, Inc., et al. Case No. D-101-CV-2016-00131 (Santa Fe Cnty., N.M.), we represented New Mexico against Volkswagen, Audi, and Porsche, asserting consumer protection claims relating to diesel vehicles that contained "defeat devices" designed to evade emissions standards. On the fifty states that settled with these defendants over the same misconduct, we helped New Mexico achieve a settlement per vehicle that far exceeded the money received by any other state.

In State of New Mexico v. Takata Corporation, et al., Case No. D-101-CV-2017-00176 (Santa Fe Cnty., N.M.), we helped New Mexico obtain more than $25 million against Honda, Ford, and other automobile companies for the marketing and sale of vehicles with Takata airbag inflators susceptible to rupture and capable of causing death and severe injury. We also served as bankruptcy counsel when Takata Corporation and its American subsidiary went into bankruptcy shortly after our case was filed.

In State of New Mexico, ex rel. Hector H. Balderas v. Solvay Pharms., Case No. D-101-CV-2019-01897 (Santa Fe Cnty., N.M.), we successfully represented New Mexico against AbbVie, Abbott, and Solvay Pharmaceuticals for the deceptive marketing and sale of the testosterone therapy supplement drug AndroGel, which they marketed as a "cure" for aging men, while omitting the cardiovascular and other risks associated with the drug.

In State of New Mexico, ex rel. Hector H. Balderas v. Wells Fargo & Company, Case No. D-101-CV-2018-02395 (Santa Fe Cnty., N.M.), we successfully represented New Mexico against Wells Fargo for fraudulently opening unauthorized bank accounts and credit cards in the names of New Mexico customers and enrolling them in unauthorized banking services, with New Mexico netting the highest settlement premium of any state in the nation.

In each of these cases, we were involved from pre-filing investigation through settlement. The AndroGel matter, referenced above, exemplifies our firm's commitment to hard fought litigation on behalf of our state attorney general clients. In that case, our firm reviewed millions of pages of documents, retained seven expert witnesses, deposed fourteen fact witnesses and three expert witnesses for defendants, briefed and successfully argued four motions to compel, and defeated the defendants' summary judgment motion. A favorable settlement was reached one business day before trial was to begin.

Currently, we are in ongoing litigation on behalf of Michigan and Illinois in these states' multibillion-dollar battles against the manufacturers of "Forever Chemicals" (PFAS and AFFF), which have contaminated these states' air, water, and soil.¹ We undertook these representations knowing that they are likely to be lengthy, sprawling, and carry high costs. We also currently represent New Mexico in litigation against Facebook for the social media giant's misuse of user's personal information,² as well as in two antitrust actions against major pork and broiler chicken producers stemming from conspiracies to reduce production and artificially inflate prices.³

Our Public Client Group is led by Adam Levitt, Diandra "Fu" Debrosse Zimmermann, and Daniel Ferri. Beyond their public client work, Mr. Levitt, Ms. Debrosse Zimmerman, and Mr. Ferri also have substantial consumer protection experience in the class action and mass tort contexts.

Mr. Levitt is one of the firm's two founding partners, and he has served as President of the Class Action Trial Lawyers division of The National Trial Lawyers and been rated by Chambers and Partners in Band 1 for his plaintiff-side litigation work. He has had leadership roles in many class actions, including serving as co-lead counsel in three of the largest

Ms. Debrosse Zimmerman, who was recently named a 2022 Litigation Trailblazer by the National Law Journal, is a founding member of Shades of Mass, an organization dedicated to encouraging the appointment of attorneys of color in national mass tort actions. She also represents municipalities in both In re: National Prescription Opiate Litigation (MDL No. 2804) and In re: McKinsey & Company Inc., National Prescription Opiate Consultant Litigation (MDL No. 2996).

Mr. Ferri has been heavily involved in the firm’s work on behalf of the New Mexico Office of the Attorney General, strategizing and managing the day-to-day litigation in the actions referenced above. Mr. Ferri is also involved in numerous complex class actions, having recently played a significant role in achieving a jury verdict against General Motors for north of $100 million.⁷

Privacy, Technology, and Cybersecurity

DiCello Levitt’s Privacy, Technology, and Cybersecurity Group was named Practice Group of the Year in 2020 by The National Law Journal and in 2020 and 2021 by Law360. The team is led Amy Keller and David Straite. Ms. Keller, who is rated by Chambers and Partners for her work in privacy and data security litigation, was appointed co-lead counsel in the nationwide litigation of nearly 150 million class members against Equifax, where she played a pivotal role in securing the largest settlement in a data breach case to date, with significant and important regulator collaboration: a cash fund of up to $505 million and a commitment from Equifax to invest $1 billion in security changes.⁸ Ms. Keller and her team also recently secured a rare ruling in favor of class certification in a nationwide class action against Marriott concerning a data breach impacting hundreds of millions of Americans,⁹ and achieved significant victories against cloud-based computing company Blackbaud.¹⁰ Ms. Keller, along with other members of the firm’s Privacy, Technology, and Cybersecurity practice group is currently heavily involved in the Facebook matter that the firm is litigating on behalf of New Mexico.

David Straite has been named a Cybersecurity & Privacy MVP by Law360 and a Plaintiffs’ Lawyers Trailblazer by the National Law Journal. He recently served as co-lead counsel in a class action against Facebook for its use of “cookies” to track subscribers’ internet use even after they had logged off the platform, which resulted in one of ten-largest data privacy settlements in United States history.¹¹ He currently serves as co-lead in two class actions against Google for their misuse of user data.¹²

Antitrust

DiCello Levitt’s nationally ranked and recognized Antitrust Group is regularly appointed as lead plaintiffs’ counsel because of its track record of success. The group has litigated some of the largest federal and state antitrust class action lawsuits in the U.S., often filing the first case, advancing novel theories, and creating new law through its efforts. Examples of the group’s work include:

In re Air Cargo Shipping Services Antitrust Litigation, MDL No. 1775 (E.D.N.Y.), where the group obtained more than $1.2 billion in settlements from over 30 international airlines to resolve claims alleging a global conspiracy to fix surcharges for air cargo shipping services.

Alaska Electrical Pension Fund v. Bank of America, Corp., No. 14-cv-7126 (S.D.N.Y.), where the group helped secure $504.5 million in settlements from the major dealer banks to resolve claims alleging a conspiracy to manipulate ISDAFIX, a key benchmark for valuing various interest rate derivatives.

In re Foreign Exchange Benchmark Rates Antitrust Litigation, No. 13-cv-07789 (S.D.N.Y.), where, serving as class counsel and appointed allocation counsel, the group obtained more than $2.3 billion in settlements from the major FX dealer banks to resolve claims alleging a conspiracy to fix the prices of foreign exchange transactions.

DiCello Levitt's Antitrust Group is led by Gregory Ascioffa and Karin E. Garvey. Mr. Ascioffa has been named a Titan of the Plaintiffs Bar by Law360 as well as a leading plaintiffs' competition lawyer by Chambers & Partners USA and Global Competition Review, as well as one of the "Leading Plaintiff Financial Lawyers in America" by Lawdragon. He was recently appointed as Vice-Chair of the ABA Antitrust Section's Diversity Advanced committee. Ms. Garvey is recommended by Chambers & Partners USA, Band 2 for Antitrust Mainly Plaintiff in New York, and The Legal 500 for excellence in the antitrust practice. She has also been recognized by Lawdragon as one of the "Leading Plaintiff Financial Lawyers in America."

We hope that this letter adequately conveys our firm's track record of success in public client, consumer protection, technology, and antitrust litigation. It would be an honor to represent the State of Arizona in consumer protection matters.

Sincerely,

Mark DiCello is a founding partner of DiCello Levitt. He explains that after 20 years of jury trials and serving in lead roles in some of the largest personal injury cases in Ohio and around the country, he wanted to create a plaintiffs' firm that did not exist, a firm that brought together top talent in the most important areas of plaintiffs' law.

Mark understands that while our technology-driven society continues to evolve at an unprecedented pace, the law is slow to adapt. That means the most powerful economic interests typically operate "ahead" of the law. Representing people hurt by them, from serious catastrophic physical injury to life changing economic injury, is more challenging than ever. Through that lens, he has a simple message: "While Justice is your right, society won't just give it to you, you have to fight for it." This insight forms the heart of his approach to litigation and firm building.

Mark's clients are all victims – from individuals suffering catastrophic personal injuries to groups of plaintiffs harmed by medical devices, pharmaceutical products, chemicals, automobiles, and more. He has led headline-grabbing mass tort and product liability cases and co-led massive multidistrict litigations.

For Mark, all of his experiences have led inevitably to the 2017 creation of powerhouse trial firm DiCello Levitt. He views the firm as unique in the plaintiffs' bar – a diverse and fearless team of lawyers focused on important litigations in the U.S. and abroad. His vision is to continue building a firm comprising leaders in the law with strong underlying frameworks that ensure the firm can thrive for generations to come.

Adam Levitt has scored important wins leading dozens of significant litigations on behalf of individuals, businesses, and public clients and has built a firm that reflects his resolve for justice in all its dimensions.

One of the nation's leading advocates for plaintiffs in complex multidistrict, commercial, public client, and class action litigations, Adam has delivered nearly $20 billion in recoveries to clients in biotechnology, financial services, insurance coverage, consumer protection, automotive defects, agricultural products, antitrust, and securities disputes.

Adam's reputation for innovatively taking on tough cases has led to his appointment by State Attorneys General in the largest ongoing environmental PFAS water contamination cases of our time, and the historic litigation arising from Volkswagen's emissions scandal, where, as a court-appointed member of a leadership group characterized as a "class action dream team," he helped to secure a $16 billion settlement that benefitted car buyers across the United States.

Adam has also served as co-lead counsel in three of the largest biotechnology class actions in history. He secured $1.1 billion in settlements resulting from contamination of the U.S. rice supply with genetically modified seeds; helped to obtain a $550 million settlement on behalf of landowners and landscapers in a class action involving tree and other foliage death and harm caused by an herbicide; and recovered $110 million for farmers who sustained market losses on corn crops from contamination of the U.S. corn supply with genetically modified corn.

In addition to securing significant financial relief for his clients, Adam's work has changed how biotechnology class action cases are litigated in the U.S. He co-created a game-changing economic model to measure crop contamination damages that set the modern industry standard.

Adam's groundbreaking work on behalf of plaintiffs has been recognized locally and nationally in prestigious ranking directories, including Chambers USA, where he received a Band 1 ranking for Mainly Plaintiffs Litigation in Illinois. Chambers USA also ranked Adam in Illinois for General Commercial Litigation and nationwide for Product Liability Litigation, where the editors describe him as the "go-to plaintiffs' attorney in the class actions space." In 2021 and 2022, Benchmark Litigation awarded Adam National Litigation Star: Securities and Litigation Star in Illinois. According to The National Law Journal, Adam is a "pioneer" in technology litigation, and Crain's Chicago Business named him a 2021 Notable Gen X Leader in Accounting, Consulting, and Law.

Toxic exposure to chemicals goes hand in hand with truck crash cases. Ken saw that early in his career. More than twenty years ago, Ken found himself called to the scene of a major truck crash. As a young lawyer, he witnessed what really happens in the aftermath of that kind of tragedy. He saw how truck companies protect their drivers. He saw a small police department struggle with securing a crime scene and preserving evidence. He saw how people in cars don't stand a chance when a truck driver loses control. He saw the impact that a spilled tanker can have on the environment and how toxic exposure can change lives in minutes. That experience shaped the rest of his professional career.

As a former defense lawyer, Ken was recruited by the most accomplished plaintiff-side law firms in the United States. Ken chose to join DiCello Levitt, understanding that he would have unique and unrivaled access to resources not available at any of the traditional personal injury firms. Since joining the firm, Ken has set himself apart as a leader who coordinates complex medical malpractice, birth injury, truck crash, and toxic exposure cases, all while mentoring young lawyers advancing in the trial bar and serving as the firm's General Counsel.

Over the past three decades, Ken has been recognized as a top-tier litigator in medical malpractice cases and in the transportation industry. He's litigating major medical malpractice, truck crash, and toxic exposure cases in multiple jurisdictions across the United States. Throughout his career, Ken has been recognized by the medical and trucking industries and his peers as an elite trial lawyer.

Ken is a sought-after voice and has published articles in national transportation magazines and spoken at conferences across the country. Bobby DiCello’s practice encompasses locally and nationally significant cases across a broad range of topics with a focus on restoring the human dignity stolen by civil rights abuses, catastrophic injuries, defective products, and corporate misconduct.

The trial of Officer Derek Chauvin for George Floyd’s murder was the most anticipated civil rights trial in recent history. When ABC News Live decided to cover the trial and produce the series The Death of George Floyd—Derek Chauvin on Trial, they realized that they needed an authority on high-profile trials to analyze and comment on the Floyd trial. Anticipating a national and international audience, ABC called on Bobby to give his opinions on the case. Between focus group preparation for a major pharmaceutical trial and research into the psychology of modern jurors, Bobby made himself available for weeks of real-time commentary and insight into the trial process.

Bobby is a force in the trial bar. He has obtained record verdicts in cases thought unwinnable, while, at the same time, leading cutting-edge research into juror decision-making in the politically polarized jury system. Bobby has successfully tried, as a first-chair trial lawyer, catastrophic injury and death cases, civil rights cases, medical malpractice cases, mass tort bellwether cases, qui tam cases, and financial services cases, as well as major felony prosecutions, major criminal defense actions, and a variety of other cases that have branded him as one of the nation’s best modern-day trial lawyers.

In 2021, Public Justice awarded Bobby its prestigious Trial Lawyer of the Year award for his work in the landmark Black v. Hicks police brutality and corruption case in the City of East Cleveland, Ohio. Public Justice presents this annual award to attorneys who promote the public interest by trying a precedent setting, socially significant case. Bobby tried the Black case to a jury that awarded Mr. Black a record $50 million—a verdict that has since been sustained up to the United States Supreme Court. Bobby has also been recognized twice as an “agent of change” by The National Law Journal in its annual list of Plaintiffs’ Lawyers Trailblazers, a rare honor.

Having taught trial lawyers across the country, Bobby is also known for his dedication to improving the art of trial practice. Bobby is routinely asked to assist lawyers from across the U.S. on cases. He consults on all aspects of trial preparation and motion practice, including theme building, case framing, case messaging, and the creation of visuals for courtroom presentation and exhibits. He develops his approach through DiCello Levitt’s Trial Center, where he leads focus groups, mock trials, and jury decision-making research. Bobby’s work sets DiCello Levitt apart as a truly rare law firm: a plaintiffs’ firm with an in-house focus group and mock trial practice that creates powerful presentations and—most importantly for our clients—meaningful verdicts.

Dan Flynn represents governmental entities, individual consumers, and corporate clients—all with one primary goal in mind: ensuring the protection of human health and the environment. His stewardship ensures not only that polluters be held responsible for contamination and clean-up, but that corporate entities understand their responsibilities under state and federal environmental laws. As a result of his advocacy in advising corporations on compliance, Dan's clients lead their respective industries in environmental stewardship efforts under a number of rules and regulations, including the Clean Water Act, the Clean Air Act, the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation and Liability Act, the Emergency Planning and Community Right-to-Know Act, and the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act.

Dan assists corporate entities, governmental agencies, and the public by ensuring that companies that have contaminated the environment and violated regulations take responsibility for their actions. Through contribution and cost recovery actions, common law claims, citizen suits, enforcement actions, and proper due diligence and contract negotiation, he ensures polluters and bad actors remediate the harm they have caused.

Dan is part of the DiCello Levitt team working with several states in investigating and addressing poly- and perfluoroalkyl substance ("PFAS") contamination. DiCello Levitt's PFAS team, along with other Special Assistant Attorneys General and the Illinois Attorney General, most recently filed a lawsuit against 3M for PFAS contamination from its facility in Cordova, Illinois. Cases involving these "forever chemicals" will have wide-reaching implications for state governments and their residents.

Dan also works with communities that have been impacted by years of exposure to polluted air, water, and soil. Recently, Dan and DiCello Levitt's environmental team joined with co-counsel in representing several residents and former residents of Union, Illinois in filing suit against companies responsible for polluting the groundwater with carcinogenic chlorinated solvents. Dan also serves as interim co-lead counsel in a class action on behalf of the residents of Rockton, Illinois and surrounding communities for property damages they sustained following a catastrophic fire at a local chemical factory.

In addition to his environmental work, Dan frequently counsels clients on developing and maintaining state-of-the-art safety and health programs that ensure all employees enjoy safe and healthful workplaces. He works closely with both his clients and the Occupational Safety and Health Administration ("OSHA") to enhance employee safety and health well beyond OSHA's minimum requirements.

As the firm's Privacy, Technology, and Cybersecurity practice chair, she is the youngest woman ever appointed to serve as co-lead class counsel in a nationwide class action. In the multidistrict litigation against Equifax related to its 2017 data breach, Amy represented nearly 150 million class members and helped to secure a $1.5 billion settlement, working alongside federal and state regulators to impose important security practice changes to protect consumer data.

Amy has represented consumers against industry titans like Apple, Marriott, Electrolux, and BMW, securing victories against each. Her numerous other leadership positions have required sophistication in not only understanding complex legal theories, but also in presenting multifaceted strategies and damages modeling to ensure favorable results. For example, in leading a nationwide class action related to a data breach that exposed the confidential information of over 300 million individuals, Amy worked with her team to develop an argument recognized by the trial court that the loss of someone's personal information, alone, could trigger financial liability, and later secured a rare victory, certifying that case to proceed as a class action to trial. In another matter, Amy defended her team's victory all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court, ensuring that consumers would be able to band together as a class when a company defrauds them for small amounts individually that are worth millions of dollars in the aggregate.

Amy is an elected member of the American Law Institute and a two-time chair of the Chicago Bar Association Class Action Committee, where she gave a number of presentations on topics impacting large-scale consumer class actions, including presentations on emerging legal issues in privacy cases. Amy serves on the Steering Group of the Sedona Conference's Working Group 11, which focuses on advancing the law on issues surrounding technology, privacy, artificial intelligence, and data security, and she is also on drafting teams for both Model Data Breach Notification Principles and Statutory Remedies and the California Consumer Privacy Act. Years of representing clients accused of some of the most serious crimes in Washington, D.C. gave DiCello Levitt Senior Counsel Bernadette Armand deep experience and insight into the tenuousness of civil and human rights in the U.S. She challenges government officials at all levels, from police officers to politicians, to honor the U.S. Constitution’s guarantee of certain inalienable rights for all—especially those harmed when leaders trample on those rights.

Bernadette joined DiCello Levitt after serving as supervising trial attorney for the Public Defender Service for the District of Columbia, where she was the lead trial attorney on homicide and other serious felony matters. She called her job of standing with her accused clients in the fight for freedom and their lives “the hardest job I’ve ever loved.” She is currently a member of the firm’s civil and human rights and mass torts groups, as well as DiCello Levitt’s Trial Advocacy Center.

Before joining the Public Defender Service in 2014, Bernadette worked as an attorney at law firms where she focused her practice on representing plaintiffs in federal civil rights, employment discrimination, and personal injury matters.

Her blend of leadership and trial experiences is valuable to clients, colleagues, and aspiring attorneys, so Bernadette shares her knowledge through trainings and teaching. Chuck has authored compelling whistleblower submissions on behalf of both corporate insiders and interested outsiders. He has the good fortune of learning this complicated dance under the tutelage of the principal architect of the Security and Exchange Commission's Whistleblower Program.
