INTRODUCTION¹

This case was the first state challenge to the Biden Administration’s unconstitutional and illegal mass vaccine mandates on federal contractors and employees, but it will hardly be the last.² The Contractor and Employee Mandates are part of the Administration’s larger pattern of repeatedly transgressing statutory and constitutional limitations to impose unlawful vaccination mandates. As the Fifth Circuit has recognized, “After the President voiced his displeasure with the country’s vaccination rate in September, the Administration pored over the U.S. Code in search of authority, or a ‘work-around,’ for imposing a national vaccine mandate.” BST Holdings, L.L.C. v. OSHA (“BST”), ___ F.4th ___, 2021 WL 5279381, at *4 (5th Cir. Nov. 12, 2021). And these mandates too are part of the even larger pattern of letting no crisis go to waste when it comes to consolidating and aggrandizing federal power unlawfully. See, e.g., Alabama Association of Realtors v. HHS, 141 S. Ct. 2485, 2489 (2021). If Defendants succeed in their gambit, there will be little (if any) barrier to the federal government’s use of the Procurement Act to demolish the reserved powers/liberties of the States and individuals.

Simply put, Defendants are unlawfully trying to jam an elephant (new, broad sweeping public health powers) into a mouse hole (the Procurement Act). Whitman v. Am. Trucking Associations, 531 U.S. 457, 468 (2001). It will not fit. The Procurement Act is not a license for President Biden to unilaterally exercise traditional police powers over one-fifth of the workers in this country. Congress wields the power of the purse, and Congress has not given the President any such authority. It’s not the President’s money; it’s the people’s money, and Congress has not authorized this. (And it is doubtful that it could.)

² Twenty-six other states have now filed seven other federal lawsuits around the country challenging the unprecedented federal contractor mandate being imposed on them. Florida v. Nelson, 21-CV-02524 (M.D. Fla. Oct. 28, 2021) (filed by Florida); Missouri v. Biden, 21-CV-01300 (E.D. Mo. Oct. 29, 2021) (filed by MO, AR, NH, WY, NE, IA, ND, ND, AL, MT, and SD); Texas v. Biden, 21-CV-00309 (W.D. Tex. Oct. 29, 2021); Georgia v. Biden, 21-CV-00163 (S.D. Ga. Oct. 29, 2021) (GA, AL, ID, KS, SC, UT, and WV); Kentucky v. Biden, 21-CV-00055 (E.D. Ky. Nov. 4, 2021) (KY, OH, and TN); Louisiana v. Biden, 21-CV-03867 (W.D. La. Nov. 4, 2021) (LA, IN, and MS); Oklahoma v. Biden, 21-CV-01069 (W.D. Okla. Nov. 4, 2021).

1 guidance. 86 Fed. Reg. 50985, 50986 (Sept. 9, 2021); Second Amended Complaint, “SAC,”
2 Ex. 2 at 3.) The SFWTF contractor guidance further recommended that prior to the FAR 3 rulemaking, agencies should “exercise their authority to deviate from the FAR” to implement 4 their own vaccine mandates. (SAC, Ex. 3 at 12.)

5 On September 30, the FAR Council issued Class Deviation Clause 52.223-99 (“FAR 6 Deviation Clause”) with accompanying guidance. Which commits the contractor to complying 7 “with all guidance, including guidance conveyed through Frequently Asked Questions, as 8 amended during the performance of this contract...” (Id. at 6.). Both the FAR Council 9 Memorandum and the SFWTF contractor guidance emphasize that the Government can 10 change the terms of the SFWTF Guidance at any time. (Id.; SAC, Ex. 2 at 3.) The FAR 11 Deviation Clause has never been published in the Federal Register for notice and comment.

12 Economic and Political Significance of the Contractor Mandate

13 The Contractor Mandate will affect a large portion of the labor force. The Department 14 of Labor recognizes that “workers employed by federal contractors” comprise “approximately 15 one-fifth of the entire U.S. labor force.”⁶ The proportion in Arizona would be similar.

16 A recent survey by the Kaiser Family Foundation found that 72 percent of 17 unvaccinated workers say they will quit their jobs if they are subjected to such a mandate, 18 which would translate “to somewhere between 5% to 9% of workers leaving their jobs, 19 depending upon what rules they face.”⁷

20 Federal Attempts To Impose the Contractor Mandate On Arizona

21 A number of federal agencies have demanded that State agencies modify their contracts 22 with the federal government to include the FAR Deviation Clause and thus implement the 23 Contractor Mandate. The biggest single impact on the State has been on the Arizona Board 24 of Regents (“ABOR”), which oversees the management, direction, and governance of 25

26 supplies and services with appropriated funds. See, e.g., <https://bit.ly/3BKz39j>.

27 ⁶ Office of Contract Compliance Programs, Dep’t of Labor, History of Executive Order 11246 (last visited Nov. 16, 2021), tinyurl.com/3ddetdyf (emphasis added).

28 ⁷ Chris Isidore et al., “72% of unvaccinated workers vow to quit if ordered to get vaccinated,” CNN (Oct. 28, 2021), at tinyurl.com/79uh7b39.

1 Arizona's three public universities: Arizona State University, Northern Arizona University,
2 and the University of Arizona. All three universities are federal contractors, and for Fiscal Year
3 2021, their total federal revenues were $1,207,926,800. (SAC, Ex. 5 ¶ 3.)

4 Because they face the significant harm of losing more than a billion dollars if they do 5 not submit to the Contractor Mandate, all three universities have been actively engaged in 6 efforts to comply with that Mandate, even though such a mandate violates state law. Based on 7 the current requirements of the Contractor Mandate, if covered contractor employees of 8 ABOR do not obtain a final dose of a COVID-19 vaccine by January 4, 2022, those employees 9 will have to be removed from working on federal contracts and relocated to a workplace that 10 is not a covered contractor workplace, or be terminated. The employee discipline and 11 termination process is lengthy, costly, and will require ABOR to expend extensive resources 12 to ensure compliance. Plus, ABOR faces the loss of technically skilled employees, which will 13 impact the universities' ability to perform the services required by their contracts, especially 14 because it may not be possible to replace those employees in the current labor market.

15 Defendant GSA has made demands on at least two State agencies that they implement 16 the Contractor Mandate. The Arizona Department of Transportation ("ADOT") owns 17 property that it leases to the General Services Administration ("GSA"). GSA sent to ADOT
18 a letter dated October 14, 2021 stating that a contract modification imposing a vaccine 19 mandate "is mandatory and your acceptance is required in order to ensure compliance with 20 E.O. 14042" and that contract "modifications must be finalized by November 14, 2021." 21 (SAC, Ex. 6 ¶ 3 (emphasis in original).) And, as detailed previously, on October 18, 2021, GSA
22 demanded that the Arizona state Retirement System ("ASRS") also impose the Contractor
23 Mandate on its employees. (Doc. 48-4.)

24 On October 22, 2021, Defendant CDC demanded that the Arizona Department of 25 Health Services ("ADHS") implement the Contractor Mandate and that ADHS "sign and 26 return the modification via email to the Contracting Officer of record by November 9, 2021."
27 (SAC, Ex. 7 ¶ 3.) This demand was based on two ADHS contracts with the CDC having a 28 total value of approximately $520,000. Id.

1 As detailed previously, on November 2, 2021, the Equal Employment Opportunity 2 Commission (“EEOC”) requested that the Division of Civil Rights Section (“DCRS”) of the 3 Arizona Attorney General’s Office renew a contract and workshare agreement whereby 4 EEOC provides about $500,000 of funding to DCRS. (Doc. 48-3 and 58-1.)

5 On November 2, 2021, the National Park Service (“NPS”) demanded that the Arizona
6 Department of Public Safety (“DPS”) implement the Contractor Mandate by modifying a DPS 7 contract with the NPS to provide lab services. (SAC, Ex. 8 ¶ 3.) On September 28, 2021, the 8 U.S. Forest Service demanded that the Arizona Department of Corrections, Rehabilitation, 9 and Reentry (“ADCRR”) comply with new COVID-19 safeguards, including mandatory 10 “vaccine certification,” in connection with a contract between the ADCRR and the Forest 11 Service through which inmates perform work on Forest Service land (SAC, Ex. 9 ¶ 3.)

12 The Second OMB Notice

13 On November 10, 2021, Defendant Young, Acting Director of the OMB, issued for 14 publication in the Federal Register a notice titled “Determination of the Acting OMB Director 15 Regarding the Revised Safer Federal Workforce Task Force Guidance for Federal Contractors 16 and the Revised Economy & Efficiency Analysis.” The notice was published in the Federal 17 Register on November 16, 2021. 86 Fed. Reg. 63418 (Nov. 16, 2021). The Second OMB 18 Notice attempts to justify the Contractor Mandate as promoting economy and efficiency in 19 procurement. It also re-publishes part of the SFWTF contractor guidance.

20 ARGUMENT

21 I. The Contractor Mandate Is Reviewable

22 A. The State Has Suffered Direct Injuries That Confer Constitutional Standing

23 “Well before the creation of the modern administrative state, [the Supreme Court] 24 recognized that States are not normal litigants for the purposes of invoking federal 25 jurisdiction.... [States are] entitled to special solicitude in [a] standing analysis.” Massachusetts v.
26 E.P.A., 549 U.S. 497, 518, 520 (2007). Even without such “special solicitude,” the State 27 satisfies the constitutional standing requirement in at least five ways.

28 First, the federal contractor vaccine mandate invades the State’s sovereignty by

1 regulating a matter that the U.S. Constitution reserves to the States. That encroachment
2 constitutes an injury in fact. See Alfred L. Snapp & Son, Inc. v. Puerto Rico, ex rel., Barez, 458 U.S.
3 592, 601 (1982); Texas v. United States, 809 F.3d 134, 153 (5th Cir. 2015), aff'd by an equally divided 4 court 136 S. Ct. 2271 (2016), “[T]he regulation of health and safety matters is primarily, and 5 historically, a matter of local concern.” Hillsborough Cnty, Fla. v. Automated Med. Lab’ys, Inc., 471 6 U.S. 707, 719 (1985); see Nat’l Fed’n of Indep. Bus. v. Sebelius, 567 U.S. 519, 536 (2012) (referring 7 to the police power as a “general power of governing, possessed by the States but not by the 8 Federal Government”). Through the Contractor Mandate, the federal government grabbed 9 for itself a power the Constitution reserves for the States. See BST, 2021 WL 5279381, at *7– 10 8 (recognizing that, to the extent that the government would actually have the power to 11 institute a vaccine mandate, such power would be belong to the States).

12 Second, the Contractor Mandate claims to preempt “any contrary State of local law or 13 ordinance,” (SAC, Ex. 3 at 15.) In doing so, the Contractor Mandate harms the State’s interest 14 in enforcing its own laws and its own religious-liberty protections. See, e.g., Ariz. Const. art.
15 XX, Par. 1; A.R.S. § 23-206 (right of employees to refuse an employer COVID-19 vaccine 16 mandate on the basis of “religious beliefs, practices or observances”); A.R.S. § 41-1493–
17 1493.04 (Arizona’s Free Exercise of Religion Act). This injury confers standing, as “[a] state 18 has an interest in its ‘exercise of sovereign power over individuals and entities within the 19 relevant jurisdiction,’ which ‘involves the power to create and enforce a legal code.’” Hawaii v.
20 Trump, 859 F.3d 741, 765 (9th Cir.), vacated and remanded on other grounds, 138 S. Ct. 377,

21 Third, a State has standing to “sue to protect its own proprietary interests that might be 22 congruent with those of its citizens, including responsibilities, powers, and assets.” Sierra Forest
23 Legacy v. Sherman, 646 F.3d 1161, 1178 (9th Cir. 2011). The State itself, through its agencies 24 and political subdivisions, is a federal contractor subject to the Contractor Mandate. (See SAC 25 ¶¶82-92.) The State, therefore, will suffer financial injuries, including from lost workers who 26 must quit to escape the mandate and from overseeing costly compliance with the Contractor 27 Mandate. The increased unemployment from fired State employees and employees of private 28 contractors will likely increase the burden on the State’s unemployment insurance funds, and

1 it will inflict economic disruption on the State’s economy as a whole. Furthermore, employers 2 critical to the supply chain that are also federal contractors will likely lose significant numbers
3 of employees. It is entirely predictable, therefore, that the Contractor Mandate will exacerbate 4 current supply chain issues. As a result, prices will continue to rise and cause direct injuries to 5 the State as a purchaser. It will also harm the State’s proprietary interest in the economic well-
6 being of the State.⁸ Or, if the State refuses to implement the Contractor Mandate, it will suffer 7 the injury of lost federal revenue. The State, just like all other litigants, has standing to seek 8 redress for these proprietary injuries. See Snapp, 458 U.S. at 601–02. Indeed, “if the complainant 9 is an object of the action...at issue—as is the case usually in review of a rulemaking...—there 10 should be little question that the action...has caused him injury.” Fund For Animals, Inc. v.
11 Norton, 322 F.3d 728, 733–34 (D.C. Cir. 2003) (internal quotation marks omitted).

12 Fourth, the Ninth Circuit has specifically held that federal policies affecting a state’s 13 public universities confer standing on the state, “grounded in its proprietary interests as an 14 operator of [a] University.” Hawaii v. Trump, 859 F.3d at 765, vacated and remanded on other grounds, 15 138 S. Ct. 377, 199 L. Ed. 2d 275 (2017). Injuries to the State’s universities also “give the State[] 16 standing to assert the rights of the [university] students, scholars, and faculty affected...”
17 Washington v. Trump, 847 F.3d 1151, 1160 (9th Cir. 2017).

18 Fifth, the Contractor Mandate requires employees to prove vaccination status with 19 documentation. Agencies of the State often possess such documentation. A predictable 20 consequence of the Contractor Mandate is thus to increase the number of people seeking 21 documentation from the State regarding vaccination status. See Dep’t of Commerce v. New York, 22 139 S. Ct. 2551, 2566 (2019). This will increase costs to the State and cause it injury.

23 B. Sovereign Immunity Does Not Apply

24 Sovereign immunity does not bar most claims for equitable relief against executive 25 agencies because Congress “largely eliminat[ed] the federal sovereign immunity defense” when 26 it amended 5 U.S.C. § 702 in 1976. E. V. v. Robinson, 906 F.3d 1082, 1092 (9th Cir. 2018). “On

27 ⁸ See Spencer Kimball, “Business Groups Ask White House to Delay Biden COVID Vaccine 28 Mandate Until After the Holidays,” CNBC (Oct. 25, 2021), tinyurl.com/4pbhmxny (“Worried that President Joe Biden’s Covid vaccine mandate...could cause a mass exodus of employees, business groups are pleading...to delay the rule until after the holiday season.”).

1 its face, the 1976 amendment is an unqualified waiver of sovereign immunity in actions seeking 2 nonmonetary relief against legal wrongs for which governmental agencies are accountable”; 3 Congress stated that “the time [has] now come to eliminate the sovereign immunity defense in 4 all equitable actions for specific relief against a Federal agency or officer acting in an official 5 capacity.” The Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.) v. United States, 870 F.2d 518, 525 (9th Cir. 1989)
6 (emphasis added) (quoting H.Rep. No. 1656, 94th Cong., 2d Sess. 9, reprinted in 1976 7 U.S.Code Cong. & Admin.News 6121, 6129). In a non-statutory cause of action seeking 8 equitable relief, there is no requirement that the challenged action have been final agency 9 action under the APA. “[T]he second sentence of § 702 waives sovereign immunity broadly 10 for all causes of action that meet its terms, while § 704's ‘final agency action’ limitation applies 11 only to APA claims.” Navajo Nation v. Dep’t of the Interior, 876 F.3d 1144, 1172 (9th Cir. 2017).

12 Furthermore, for claims that do not fall within the APA’s waiver of sovereign immunity 13 “a suit against a federal official for specific relief is not considered to be against the 14 government, and thus is not barred by sovereign immunity, where the plaintiff alleges: (1) 15 action by officers beyond their statutory powers or (2) even though within the scope of their 16 authority, the powers themselves or the manner in which they are exercised are constitutionally 17 void.” E. V., 906 F.3d at 1091 (cleaned up).

18 C. Plaintiffs Have Causes Of Action To Assert These Challenges

19 When “a statute...makes no provision for judicial review...[t]hat alone, of course, is not 20 decisive” as to whether federal courts have jurisdiction to review. Estep v. United States, 327 21 U.S. 114, 119–20 (1946) (citations omitted). “Courts have long recognized the existence of an 22 implied cause of action through which plaintiffs may seek equitable relief to remedy a 23 constitutional violation.” Roman v. Wolf, 977 F.3d 935, 941 (9th Cir. 2020) (citation omitted).

24 This is true also for actions challenging executive actions as ultra vires: “when Congress 25 limits its delegation of power, courts infer (unless the statute clearly directs otherwise) that 26 Congress expects this limitation to be judicially enforced. The passage of the APA has not 27 altered this presumption. Prior to the APA’s enactment courts had recognized the right of 28 judicial review of agency actions that exceeded authority, and nothing in the subsequent enactment of the APA altered that doctrine of review to repeal the review of ultra vires actions.

1 When an executive acts ultra vires, courts are normally available to reestablish the limits on his 2 authority.” Sierra Club v. Trump, 963 F.3d 874, 891 (9th Cir.) vacated on other grounds sub nom., 3 Biden v. Sierra Club, No. 20-138, 2021 WL 2742775 (U.S. July 2, 2021) (cleaned up). Thus, 4 “review is ordinarily available when an agency exceeds its delegation of authority,” Id. (citing 5 Chamber of Commerce of the United States v. Reich, 74 F.3d 1322, 1325–26 (D.C. Cir. 1996)).

6 When challenging “the President's statutory authority to issue [an] executive order,” if 7 “a plaintiff is unable to bring his case predicated on either a specific or a general statutory 8 review provision, he may still be able to institute a non-statutory review action.” Sierra Club, 9 963 F. 3d at 892 (quoting Reich, 74 F.3d at 1327). This is because “the responsibility of 10 determining the limits of statutory grants of authority is a judicial function entrusted to the 11 courts by Congress.” Id. (quoting Reich, 74 F.3d at 1327) (cleaned up). And even where a statute 12 “expressly limit[s] judicial review...court[s] retain[] the ability to review whether [an agency] 13 exceeded the authority delegated by the statute” because “the presumption of judicial review 14 is particularly strong where an agency is alleged to have acted beyond its authority.” Id.
 15 (quoting Dart v. United States, 848 F.2d 217, 219, 223–34 (D.C. Cir. 1988)).

16 D. Plaintiffs Request Consolidation With Trial On The Merits

17 As more fully discussed in a separate motion filed concurrently with this one, and 18 pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 65(a)(2), Plaintiffs request that the Court advance the trial on the 19 merits and consolidate it with the hearing on this PI motion.

20 II. Plaintiffs Are Likely To Prevail On The Merits Of Their Claims Against the Contractor Mandate

21 A. The Contractor Mandate Violates the Procurement Act

22 1. The Second OMB Notice Does Not Establish A Nexus With Economy And Efficiency

23 The Second OMB Notice makes only a weak, pretextual attempt to establish a nexus 24 with economy and efficiency. Indeed, before it makes any mention of economy and efficiency, 25 or even of procurement at all, it explicitly states that its actual main objective is to achieve 26 public health goals, specifically, “to get more people vaccinated.” 86 Fed. Reg. at 63418. It 27 claims, without evidence, that the Contractor Mandate will “decrease worker absence, reduce 28 labor costs, and improve the efficiency of contracts and subcontractors. Id. It further makes the circular argument that, because some private businesses have imposed vaccine mandates,

1 those private businesses’ vague justifications somehow also justify the federal government’s 2 vague justifications Id. at 63421. This reasoning is upside-down, however, as the vast majority 3 of businesses in the United States do not impose vaccine mandates. (See SAC ¶ 99.) To the 4 extent that the decisions of private businesses to impose vaccine mandates is relevant to 5 whether the Contractor Mandate has a nexus with economy and efficiency, the fact that the 6 vast majority of private businesses have elected not to impose vaccine mandates thus reveals 7 the pretextual nature of Defendants’ economy and efficiency claims. Furthermore, the Second 8 OMB Notice claims that the Contractor Mandate will reduce the spread of COVID-19, yet 9 the only evidence it cites in support of this claim is a study that was conducted before the 10 Delta variant of COVID-19 became dominant and that made no findings as to reductions in 11 infection, but only found that the Pfizer and Moderna vaccines reduce the severity of COVID-12 19 infection.⁹

13 The Second OMB Notice acknowledges costs from “employees quitting” and also 14 from “side effects from vaccination.” Id. at 63,422. The Notice, however, makes no attempt 15 to quantify these costs, and instead handwaves them away, claiming without evidence that “we 16 expect few employees to quit” and that vaccine side effects will be less costly than COVID-17 19 infection. Id. It claims that there are only “anecdotal reports” of employees quitting from 18 the Contractor Mandate and that “we know of no systematic evidence that this has been a 19 widespread phenomenon, or that it would be likely to occur among employees of federal 20 contractors.” Id. OMB did have in its possession, however “systematic evidence” that 21 imposing the Contractor Mandate would likely lead to loss of employees. The First Amended 22 Complaint (“FAC”) in this case cited such evidence. See, e.g., Doc 14 ¶ 83.

23 Furthermore, as discussed supra, the Contractor Mandate is likely to lead to a substantial 24 loss of federal contractor employees. Such mass resignations will impose drastic hardship on 25 working families throughout the State and cause massive economic disruption for federal

26 ⁹ Mark W. Tenforde, et al., “Sustained Effectiveness of Pfizer-BioNTech and Moderna
27 Vaccines Against COVID-19 Associated Hospitalizations Among Adults-United States, 28 March–July 2021,” 70 Morbidity & Mortality Weekly Rep. Aug. 27, 2021, pp. 1156–1162, tinyurl.com/vxhabbzm (“[p]rotection against severe COVID-19 resulting in hospitalization was sustained through 24 weeks after vaccination with mRNA COVID-19 vaccines”).

1 contractors and for the economy at large. They will inevitably cause staffing shortages for 2 federal contractors and exacerbate supply-chain woes. As a result, costs of federal contracts 3 would rise and efficiency would fall. Thus, the Contractor mandate is the antithesis of 4 “economy and efficiency” and has no nexus with likely savings to the government.

5 Despite the claims made in the Second OMB Notice, the Contractor Mandate is thus 6 outside the scope of the Procurement Act. See 40 U.S.C. § 121(a) (requiring the President’s 7 policies and directives to be “consistent with this subtitle”).

8 a. Defendants’ Broad Reading of the Procurement Act Would Give the Federal Government Never-Before-Seen Power

9 Just like the eviction moratorium struck down in Alabama Realtors, the Second OMB 10 Notice fails because it attempts to usurp broad power not conferred by the relevant statute.
 11 141 S. Ct. at 2489. The Second OMB Notice’s justification could just as easily be used to justify 12 invasive government meddling in a multitude of areas in the private lives of all federal 13 contractors. According to Defendant CDC, the following conditions make someone more 14 likely to get “severely ill from COVID-19”: smoking, diabetes, obesity, and pregnancy.¹⁰ The 15 same justifications for the Contractor Mandate would thus also just as reasonably justify using 16 the Procurement Act to impose a no-smoking mandate, a sugar-free mandate, or a weight-loss 17 mandate—or even a stomach-stapling mandate.

18 Nor can Defendants excuse these violations just because these contracts involve federal 19 dollars. Only Congress can impose conditions under the Spending Clause—not the Executive 20 Branch. U.S. Const. art. I, § 8, cl. 1. Moreover, any conditions must be unambiguous in the 21 statutory text. Pennhurst State Sch. & Hosp. v. Halderman, 451 U.S. 1, 17 (1981); South Dakota v.
 22 Dole, 483 U.S. 203, 207–08 (1987). But nothing in the Procurement Act or Procurement Policy 23 Act even hints at vaccine mandates, let alone unambiguously establishes them.

24 2. The Contractor Mandate Violates The Procurement Act By 25 Unlawfully Attempting To Delegate To OMB And the SFWTF The Power To Make Government-Wide Procurement Regulations

26 EO 14042 violates the Procurement Policy Act by delegating to OMB and the SFWTF 27 the power to make a government-wide procurement regulation when that power belongs to 28

¹⁰ CDC, “People with Certain Medical Conditions,” Oct 14, 2021, tinyurl.com/4pbrppj5 .

1 the FAR Council alone. The FAR Council is charged with “issu[ing] and maintain[ing]” a 2 “single, [g]overnment-wide procurement regulation” known as the Federal Acquisition 3 Regulation (“FAR”). 41 U.S.C. § 1303(a)(1). That power is exclusive—no other agency may 4 issue government-wide procurement regulations. See id. § 1303(a)(2) (“Other regulations...shall 5 be limited to...satisfy the specific and unique needs of the agency.”). Yet EO 14042 does 6 exactly that. In violation of the Procurement Policy Act, the order unlawfully purports to 7 delegate to OMB and the SFWTF power to make government-wide procurement regulations.
8 See EO 14042 § 2(a). And it further putatively confers on the FAR Council the authority to 9 circumvent traditional procedural requirements, see 41 U.S.C. § 1707(d), by the expedient of 10 labeling such regulations mere “guidance,” see EO 14042 § 3(a).

11 Moreover, EO 14042 and the FAR Deviation Clause allow the SFWTF to change the 12 vaccine mandate whenever it wishes, see EO 14042 § 2(a) (requiring compliance with the 13 “guidance ... published by” the SFWTF); (SAC, Ex. 1 at 6.) (requiring compliance with the 14 SFWTF’s guidance “as amended during the performance of this contract”), without the 15 agreement of, or even notice to, the FAR Council and without the notice-and-comment period 16 required by the Procurement Policy Act, see 41 U.S.C. §§ 1303(a), 1707(a)–(b).

17 Thus, EO 14042, the OMB conclusion that it purports to authorize, and the FAR 18 Deviation Clause all violate the Procurement Policy Act and so cannot be a lawful exercise of 19 authority under the Procurement Act.

20 3. The Contractor Mandate Violates The Anti-Commandeering 21 Doctrine

22 The Tenth Amendment provides that: “The powers not delegated to the United States 23 by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, 24 or to the people.” That amendment, along with basic structural features of the Constitution, 25 deprives Congress of “the power to issue direct orders to the governments of the States.”
26 Murphy v. NCAA, 138 S. Ct. 1461, 1476 (2018). The Constitution thus does not tolerate the 27 federal government dragooning State officers “into administering federal law.” Printz v. United 28 States, 521 U.S. 898, 928 (1997). “[T]he Constitution has never been understood to confer upon Congress the ability to require the States to govern according to Congress’ instructions.

1 Otherwise the two-government system established by the Framers would give way to a system
2 that vests power in one central government, and individual liberty would suffer. That insight 3 has led [the Supreme] Court to strike down federal legislation that commandeers a State's 4 legislative or administrative apparatus for federal purposes” or to “conscript state agencies 5 into the national bureaucratic army.” NFIB, 567 U.S. at 577 (Roberts, C.J.) (cleaned up).

6 Yet that is exactly what Defendants are doing. The Contractor Mandate applies to 7 contracts between the federal government and state agencies, and Defendants compel those 8 agencies to implement the federal government’s vaccination policy far beyond the confines of 9 federal contracts to state employees who have nothing to do with federal contracts or those 10 who are working remotely. State agencies will now become administrators of federal COVID-11 19 vaccine mandates. See Printz v. United States, 521 U.S. 898, 914 (1997).

12 B. The Contractor Mandate Violates 41 U.S.C. § 1707

13 1. The Second OMB Notice Did Not Properly Waive § 1707 And 14 Omitted Two-Thirds Of The Controlling Guidance

15 The notice-and-comment requirements of the Procurement Policy Act may only be 16 waived “if urgent and compelling circumstances make compliance with the requirements 17 impracticable.” 41 U.S.C. § 1707(d). However, “society's interest in slowing the spread of 18 COVID-19 cannot qualify as compelling forever, for if human nature and history teach 19 anything, it is that civil liberties face grave risks when governments proclaim indefinite states 20 of emergency.” BST, 2021 WL 5279381, at *3 n.10 (cleaned up) (quoting Does 1–3 v. Mills, — U.S. — 2021 WL 5027177, at *3 (Oct. 29, 2021) (Gorsuch, J., dissenting)).

21 The Second OMB Notice’s assertion that a waiver is now urgent and compelling is 22 facially senseless when the OMB, through the same document, delayed the mandate 23 compliance date from December 8, 2021, to January 14, 2022. See BST, 2021 WL 5279381, at 24 *3 (justification of OSHA vaccine mandate on the basis of “a purported ‘emergency’ that the 25 entire globe has now endured for nearly two years, and which OSHA itself spent nearly two 26 months responding to—is unavailing”). “The Administration's prior statements in this regard 27 further belie the notion that COVID-19 poses the kind of emergency that” would justify 28 invocation of the urgent and compelling exception to Section 1707. Id. at *5 “In reviewing

1 agency pronouncements, courts need not turn a blind eye to the statements of those issuing 2 such pronouncements. In fact, courts have an affirmative duty not to do so. It is thus critical 3 to note that the Mandate makes no serious attempt to explain why...the President himself [was] 4 against vaccine mandates before [he was] for one here.... Because it is generally arbitrary or 5 capricious to depart from a prior policy sub silentio, agencies must typically provide a detailed 6 explanation for contradicting a prior policy, particularly when the prior policy has engendered
7 serious reliance interests.” Id. and n.17 (cleaned up) (citations omitted) (quoting President 8 Biden’s statement that “no I don't think vaccines should be mandatory.”).

9 OMB’s irrational and designed-for-litigation justification is further evidenced by the 10 fact it issued the Second Notice with the 1707(d) waiver only after being repeatedly sued. See 11 supra note 1. Indeed, this was the first case to raise the issue, and OMB waited to submit the 12 Second OMB Notice until just minutes before the start of this Court’s hearing on Plaintiffs’ 13 previous TRO/PI motion. (11/10/21 Tr. at 48:18-49:2.) Dep’t of Commerce, 139 S. Ct. at 2573–
14 74 (Although “[a] court is ordinarily limited to evaluating the agency’s contemporaneous 15 explanation in light of the existing administrative record[,]...we have recognized a narrow 16 exception to th[is] general rule...[o]n a ‘strong showing of bad faith or improper behavior[.]’”).

17 Because Defendants did not make a valid invocation of compelling and urgent 18 circumstances, the 60-day notice-and-comment requirements of § 1707 still apply, and the 19 Second OMB Notice, therefore, may “not take effect .” 41 U.S.C. § 1707.

20 The Second OMB Notice also violates § 1707 because it omits two-thirds of the 21 controlling SFWTF contractor guidance. The FAR Deviation Clause specifically requires 22 compliance with the SFWTF FAQ. OMB omitted, however, the SFWTF contractor FAQ 23 from the Second OMB Notice. (See SAC ¶ 80.) The SFWTF guidance published in the Second 24 OMB Notice contains approximately 3,075 words. SFWTF FAQ contained on its website, 25 however, is approximately 6,300 words.

26 By Defendants’ own designation in the FAR Deviation Clause, the SFWTF guidance 27 and FAQ together make up the Contractor Mandate. The entirety of the Contractor Mandate is 28 approximately 9,375 words long, and the Second OMB Notice is therefore incomplete—

1 containing only about 1/3 of the procurement policy at issue in this case. But § 1707 requires 2 publication of the entire procurement policy at issue. The omission of the FAQ is particularly 3 significant, as most of the sweeping reach of the Contractor Mandate is only set forth in the 4 FAQ. (SAC. ¶ 81.) Until the entire Contractor Mandate—including the FAQ—is properly 5 published for the required 60-day notice-and-comment period, then the Contractor Mandate 6 “may not take effect.” 41 U.S.C. § 1707(a)(1).

7 2. The FAR Deviation Clause Violates Section 1707

8 The FAR Deviation Clause is a “procurement regulation,” as it is a part of the Federal 9 Acquisition Regulation issued by the FAR Council and governs federal contracting and 10 procurement for certain executive agencies. Because it is the means through which the 11 Contractor Mandate is imposed, it has “a significant cost or administrative impact on 12 contractors or offerors,” 41 U.S.C. § 1707(a)(1)(A)–(B). (See Doc. 34 at 19 (analyzing meaning 13 of procurement “regulation” and “policy” and significance requirement under 41 U.S.C.
14 § 1707).) Defendants never published the FAR Deviation Clause for public comment in the 15 Federal Register nor sought to invoke any exception to the notice and comment requirement.

16 The FAR Council consists of two councils that must coordinate to revise the FAR, but 17 primary responsibility to “prepare[], issue[], and maintain[]” the FAR lies jointly with the 18 Secretary of Defense, the Administrator of General Services, and the NASA Administrator.
19 41 U.S.C. § 1303(a)(1); 48 C.F.R. § 1.103(b). A “significant revision” to the FAR is any revision 20 that “alter[s] the substantive meaning of any coverage in the FAR [s]ystem,” and has “a 21 significant cost or administrative impact on contractors” or a “significant effect beyond the 22 internal operating procedures of the issuing agency.” 48 C.F.R. § 1.501-1. Before the FAR 23 Council may make “significant revisions” to the FAR, it must provide an opportunity for 24 public comments and consider those comments when making its decision. Id. §§ 1.501-1; 25 1.501-2. When initiating a public comment period, DOD, NASA, and GSA must jointly 26 publish a notice in the Federal Register. Id. §§ 1.501-2(b); 1.201-1; 1.103. The notices must 27 contain the text of the revision and provide at least 30 days, but preferably at least 60 days, for 28 receipt of comments. Id. § 1.501-2(b), (c).

The FAR Deviation Clause implementing the SFWTF guidance is a significant revision

1 as defined by the FAR yet was not subject to notice-and-comment rulemaking. Deviation
2 Clause 52.223-99 alters the substantive meaning of contractors’ obligations to their workforces
3 and workplace safety duties under FAR Subparts 22 and 23. See 48 C.F.R. §§ 22.000–23.1105.
4 Complying with the FAR Deviation Clause will have a crushing administrative impact on 5 federal contractors. To comply, contractors must ensure all their covered employees are 6 vaccinated, implement masking and social-distancing in workplaces, create and implement a 7 contact-tracing program, and monitor the SFWTF’s website so they can scramble to comply 8 with any new guidance that the SFWTF may release at a moment’s notice. Thus, the FAR 9 Deviation Clause is a significant revision and is thereby subject to notice and comment 10 procedures. But the FAR Council did not even attempt to comply. See Sunoco, Inc. v. United 11 States, 59 Fed. Cl. 390, 396 (Fed. Cl. 2004). Nor did the FAR Council even attempt to invoke 12 the “urgent and compelling circumstances” exception. 48 C.F.R. § 1.501-3(b).

13 Instead of providing public notice and a comment period for the Contractor Mandate, 14 the FAR Council began enforcing the Mandate as a purported FAR class deviation. That is 15 unlawful, first, because the FAR Deviation Clause does not fit the definition of a deviation, 16 which is meant to be a slight departure from an existing Case FAR clause or minimal change 17 to the procurement process for a particular contract. See 48 C.F.R. § 1.401(a)–(f). But, more 18 importantly, even class deviations must be submitted as a FAR revision and subjected to 19 notice-and-comment when they are implemented on a permanent basis. Id. at § 1.404(b). The 20 FAR Deviation Clause has no expiration date, yet there was no notice-and-comment.

21 The President directed the FAR Council to implement the SFWTF Guidance to ensure 22 federal agencies would incorporate the Contractor Mandate into contracts, and the executive 23 branch has provided no indication that those requirements are time limited. As a result, the 24 FAR Council was required to treat implementation of the SFWTF Guidance as a FAR revision 25 subject to notice-and-comment. It has failed to do so. That failure requires invalidation of the 26 FAR Deviation Clause. Sunoco, Inc., 59 Fed. Cl. at 396; 48 C.F.R. §§ 1.501-1; 1.501-2.

27 III. All The Other Requirements For An Injunction Are Met

28 Plaintiffs’ prior briefing already establishes that all other requirements for an injunction are met. (Doc. 34 at 28-34.) Additionally, in this motion Plaintiffs explained in greater detail

1 supra I.A the injuries that the Contractor Mandate is causing and will cause. Those injuries also 2 further show the irreparable harm Plaintiffs will suffer if an injunction is not granted.

3 The Fifth Circuit’s reasoning in BST applies equally here, where the court held that 4 “denial of the petitioners’ proposed stay would do them irreparable harm. For one, the 5 Mandate threatens to substantially burden the liberty interests of reluctant individual recipients 6 put to a choice between their job(s) and their job(s). For the individual petitioners, the loss of 7 constitutional freedoms ‘for even minimal periods of time ... unquestionably constitutes 8 irreparable injury.’” BST, 2021 WL 5279381, at *8 (citation omitted). BST also held that a stay 9 was warranted because of the irreparable harm from “the business and financial effects of a 10 lost or suspended employee, compliance and monitoring costs associated with the Mandate, 11 [or] the diversion of resources necessitated by the Mandate.” Id. Most notable, the Fifth Circuit 12 held “[t]he States, too, have an interest in seeing their constitutionally reserved police power 13 over public health policy defended from federal overreach....In contrast, a stay will do [the 14 federal government] no harm whatsoever. Any interest [it] may claim in enforcing an unlawful 15 (and likely unconstitutional) [Mandate] is illegitimate. Moreover, any abstract ‘harm’ a stay 16 might cause the Agency pales in comparison and importance to the harms the absence of a 17 stay threatens to cause countless individuals and companies.” Id.

18 BST also held that a stay was “firmly in the public interest. From economic uncertainty 19 to workplace strife, the mere specter of the Mandate has contributed to untold economic 20 upheaval in recent months. Of course, the principles at stake when it comes to the Mandate 21 are not reducible to dollars and cents. The public interest is also served by maintaining our 22 constitutional structure and maintaining the liberty of individuals to make intensely personal 23 decisions according to their own convictions—even, or perhaps particularly, when those 24 decisions frustrate government officials.” Id.

25 Furthermore, because of the nationwide scope of the mandates, and because of their 26 systemic impact, Plaintiffs reiterate their request for a nationwide injunction.

27 CONCLUSION

28 Plaintiffs therefore respectfully request a PI enjoining the vaccine mandates.
