Logan’s Story

We lost our wonderful son, Logan Joseph Carter, to suicide at the tender age of 14. From letters he left behind, it was due to relationship issues with the “love of his life”. At that age, love is a very strong, scary, and overpowering emotion. The sad part is, lack of maturation and unknown depression were to blame. Logan showed no signs of depression. His dying by suicide shocked more people than we even know. He is greatly missed every single day, our lives will forever be changed, and I hope we can find a way to talk to one another about this epidemic phenomena. Why younger kids are choosing this is incomprehensible. Please be aware of the people in your lives. Make a difference and reach out. Depression is a silent killer. Those that seem happy are not always showing their true feelings.

REACH OUT

If you are a student:

Ask the person you are worried about if they are thinking about suicide.
Be direct and talk openly.
Be non-judgmental.
Follow up to see how they are doing.
If a friend posts something to social media you feel indicates self-harm, report it and tell a trusted adult.

If you are a parent:

Keep them safe.
Reduce access to lethal means.
Seek help.
Help connect them with ongoing support.
